

Rebecca Phillips

Professional Home Organizer

I am passionate about simplicity, being organized—particularly where it matters: cleaning, meal planning, cooking, and gardening. If you can see the things around you that matter most, you are happier and more productive. My name is Rebecca Phillips and I offer simple ways to declutter and organize your home. Having been an organization coach for over 30 years, I have helped individuals, groups and small companies reorganize their homes and businesses. I discovered this at a very early age, at around age 6. My widowed mom worked three jobs, raised two sons, and myself. I took care of keeping the house organized and clean while she worked. Over the years, I have crafted a proven practical method that is easy to learn. The process builds momentum in people to create the motivation needed to stay organized.
